The invention concerns a cosmetic product suited in particular for skin care, comprising as active principle fresh grape cells with polyphenol content and mixed with a physiologically acceptable carrier. Said cells are derived advantageously from plants of the genus Vitis (grape) and in particular of the Vitis vitifera species. They contain polyphenols which have advantageous anti-radical properties. The cosmetic product can be produced in particular in the form of a cream, a milk, a lotion, a gel, an oil or a make-up product, to delay skin ageing.
